Submitted Under:

- UNESCO Mandate on Peacebuilding and Ethical Frameworks

PREAMBLE

Humanity today stands at one of the most fragile moments in civilizational history. War, terrorism, hatred, famine, displacement, ecological collapse, technological misuse and the erosion of moral values have pushed the world into unprecedented instability.

Across continents, nations are witnessing:

- escalating violence and military conflicts

- mass displacement and refugee crises
- violations of human dignity
- collapse of ecological balance
- extinction of species
- destruction of peace, trust, and compassion

This marks a deep moral failure — a collapse of Aram (righteousness) across the world.

For centuries, the Indian civilization — Akanda Bharatham — has stood as the spiritual and philosophical foundation of peace, compassion, and universal coexistence.

The ancient doctrine of “Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam” (The World is One Family) and Aram (Righteous Living) represents humanity’s highest moral path.

From Valluvam to Bharathi, from Ramanujar to Vivekananda, from yogis to saints — India has repeatedly proclaimed that all beings — humans, animals, living, non-living, and unseen — possess equal dignity.

Humanity is not separate from creation;

Humanity is only one part of creation — not its master.

STATEMENT OF CONCERN

Today, the world faces a collapse of moral and civilizational balance:

- Technology and AI are weaponized for destruction
- Innocent civilians die in conflicts they did not create
- Refugees are treated as burdens instead of human beings
- Oceans, forests, and ecosystems are destroyed without restraint
- Economies crumble under conflict-driven governance
- Every day a species disappears from Earth permanently

The United Nations — created to preserve peace — now struggles to prevent conflict or ensure accountability. Diplomacy has become reactive rather than preventive. A new global doctrine rooted in Aram, compassion, peace, and the continuity of all beings is urgently needed.

THE DOCTRINE OF AKANDA BHARATHAM

This doctrine proposes that India (Bharatham), a civilizational nation rooted in non-violence, spirituality, and universal compassion, assume a leading role in restoring global moral order.

THE EIGHT PILLARS

1. Universal Peace (சுமபதானம்)

Abolition of war as a political tool; prioritizing diplomacy and reconciliation.

2. Aram-Based Governance

Embedding compassion, righteousness, and justice into global governance.

3. Continuity of All Beings

Recognizing moral and existential rights of all life forms — human and non-human.

4. Protection of the Voiceless

Ending suffering inflicted on animals, ecosystems, and marginalized communities.

5. Ethical AI & Global Responsibility

Ensuring artificial intelligence strengthens peace and dignity — not destruction.

6. Abolition of Hunger & Poverty

Establishing global food justice for all species.

7. Ending Weaponization

Reducing global arms production and redirecting national resources toward peace.

8. Humanitarian Diplomacy

Protecting refugees, displaced populations, and ensuring universal dignit

SECTION: INDIA'S PERMANENT MEMBERSHIP IN THE UN SECURITY COUNCIL

In the context of global peace, moral leadership, and civilizational responsibility, the doctrine affirms that India must be recognized as a Permanent Member of the United Nations Security Council (UNSC).

This position is justified under:

- Article 23 of the UN Charter (Equitable geographical representation)
- UNGA Resolution 62/557 (Framework for UNSC Reform & Expansion)
- The G4 Principles for Security Council Expansion (India, Japan, Germany, Brazil)
- The doctrine of “Representative Legitimacy” in international peace and security
- India’s historic and civilizational responsibility for global Aram, non-violence, and universal coexistence

India is the world’s largest democracy, a civilizational power rooted in peace, and a nation that has never initiated war in five thousand years of recorded history.

It embodies the principles that the UN Charter seeks to uphold:

peace, dialogue, non-aggression, human dignity, and compassion toward all beings.

India represents:

- 1.4 billion people — nearly one-sixth of humanity
- A stable democratic system
- A moral philosophy grounded in Aram (righteousness)
- A global voice for the voiceless, including animals, ecosystems, and threatened species
- A scientific and technological nation committed to ethical AI
- A peacekeeping contributor to the UN since independence
- A nation that rejects hegemonic warfare and colonial domination

Therefore, the doctrine asserts:

A UNSC without India is incomplete, unrepresentative, and morally insufficient.

A world that seeks peace must include India at the core of its peace-making architecture.

The Doctrine of Akanda Bharatham affirms that:

Granting India a permanent seat in the UN Security Council is not merely a political reform — it is a global moral necessity.

For a world that seeks:

- peace over conflict,
- coexistence over domination,
- righteousness (Aram) over aggression,
- continuity of all beings over extinction,

India's permanent membership becomes the next evolutionary step in humanity's collective destiny.

The international community — the United Nations and all Member States — must recognize that India's leadership is essential to building a peaceful, just, and compassionate world order.

A reformed United Nations Security Council must include India for the global peace system to be complete, legitimate, and effective.

SECTION: INDIA'S CIVILIZATIONAL PEACE LEGACY & ETHICAL USE OF STRENGTH

For more than ten thousand years, the Indian civilization has upheld a unique and unparalleled principle in world history:

India has never invaded, colonized, or initiated war against any other nation. This is not merely a historical record — it is a civilizational moral identity.

India's relationship with strength has always been guided by Aram (Righteousness), reflecting the eternal philosophy that:

“Strength exists to protect, not to destroy.” This ethical foundation aligns with the highest principles of modern international law.

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL BASIS

1. UN CHARTER – ARTICLES 1 & 2

India's civilizational conduct embodies:

- peaceful settlement of disputes
- non-aggression
- sovereign equality
- prohibition of force except in self-defense (Article 51)

India practiced these norms for millennia, long before the UN was established.

2. UN PEACEKEEPING DOCTRINE

India is one of the largest and longest-serving contributors to UN Peacekeeping Operations, reflecting its commitment to:

- civilian protection
- humanitarian assistance
- ethical military conduct
- global solidarity and peace

3. INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN LAW (GENEVA CONVENTIONS)

India's armed forces uphold the four pillars of humanitarian law:

- Humanity
- Necessity
- Proportionality
- Protection of civilians

India's military is globally respected for its discipline, restraint, and adherence to law.

4. JUST WAR ETHICS – GLOBAL MORAL STANDARD

India matches every criterion of ethical use of force:

- No pre-emptive aggression

- No territorial expansion
- Use of strength only for protection, rescue, or peacekeeping

VSJP'S INTERNATIONAL RECOGNITION OF INDIA'S ARMED FORCES

Recognizing India's unmatched moral military tradition, the

Vishwa Shanti Janata Party (VSJP) affirms:

The Chief of the Indian Armed Forces is the Permanent Honorary World Leader and Permanent Honorary Peace Ambassador (5-year term).

This recognition is based on the principle that:

“A military that protects Aram becomes the shield of humanity.”

India's armed forces represent:

- Discipline without aggression
- Strength without domination
- Power without oppression
- Sacrifice without expectation

In global history, no other military combines strength with non-violence at this scale.

INDIA'S ETHICAL POWER AS A GLOBAL ASSET

India proves that:

Power need not create fear; Power can create peace.

Unlike many historical empires, India has:

- never invaded another nation
- never stolen resources
- never imposed dominance
- never weaponized aggression

Instead, India uses strength for:

- defense and protection

- humanitarian rescue
- peacekeeping
- disaster relief
- global stability

This aligns directly with:

- Article 51(c) of the Constitution of India
- UN Charter Principles
- International Humanitarian Law
- UNESCO Peace Mandates
- Global Peace Norms

DECLARATION OF THIS SECTION

India's military is not an instrument of war — It is an instrument of Aram.

India's strength does not threaten nations — It protects humanity.

India's power is not for conquest — It is for the continuity of all beings.

This ethical legacy forms a foundational pillar of the GLOBAL PEACE DOCTRINE OF AKANDA BHARATHAM and must be recognized as a model for all nations.

SECTION: INDIA'S CIVILIZATIONAL TEXTS AS GLOBAL PEACE FRAMEWORKS

For thousands of years, the Indian subcontinent has given humanity some of the greatest moral, ethical, and spiritual texts — Thirukkural, Bhagavad Gita, Ramayana, Upanishads, Sangam literature and numerous other works rooted in Aram (Righteousness), Ahimsa (Non-Violence), Dharma (Moral Order), and Universal Compassion.

These texts do not belong to a single nation; they belong to all humanity.

They carry principles that align directly with contemporary international law, global human rights norms, and the ethical foundations of peaceful coexistence.

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL ALIGNMENT

1. UN CHARTER – ARTICLES 1, 2 & 55

The Charter calls for:

- international peace
- friendly relations among nations
- respect for justice and human dignity
- cooperation for economic and social progress

Thirukkural, the Bhagavad Gita, Ramayana, and Sangam texts advocate the same universal principles: compassion, non-violence, moral governance, truth, justice, and harmony.

2. UNESCO – 2001 Universal Declaration on Cultural Diversity

UNESCO recognizes ancient civilizational wisdom as “a common heritage of humanity” and calls for preservation and international recognition of texts that promote peace, ethics, and coexistence.

India’s classical literature is a prime embodiment of these UNESCO principles.

3. UNGA Resolution 53/243 – Declaration on a Culture of Peace

This resolution emphasizes:

- education for peace
- tolerance
- understanding of others
- respect for life

These principles mirror Thirukkural’s teachings:

“அறத்தொடு நடுவுநிலைமை தெளிவுடையார்க்கு

இறத்தொடு இயைபாகும் ஆக்கம்.”

(Moral conduct is the foundation of prosperity.)

4. Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR)

Articles 1, 3, 28 affirm:

- dignity of all human beings
- right to life
- a world order based on justice and equality

The Indian civilizational texts uniquely expand this concept by affirming dignity not only for humans but for all living beings and even non-living forms, thereby deepening the global understanding of rights and continuity.

5. Convention on Biological Diversity (CBD, 1992)

Global law recognizes the intrinsic value of all life forms. Indian ancient literature anticipated this by thousands of years:

Sangam poetry, Kural, and the epics proclaim compassion toward animals, insects, rivers, mountains, oceans, and all of nature.

WHY THE WORLD MUST OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZE THESE TEXTS

Thirukkural, Gita, Ramayana, and Sangam texts collectively teach:

- Peace over violence
- Compassion over hatred
- Duty over dominance
- Unity over division
- Protection of all beings (உயிர்கள்)
- Respect for non-living forms (உயிரற்றவை)
- Continuity of creation (தொடர்ச்சி)
- Moral governance (அற ஆட்சி)

These values form the moral foundation of a peaceful world order. If the United Nations and global organizations officially recognize these texts as World Peace Literature, they will:

- ✓ Strengthen global culture of non-violence
- ✓ Promote ethical leadership

- ✓ Protect the dignity of all beings
- ✓ Create moral continuity for future generations
- ✓ Build harmony between humans, nature, and technology
- ✓ Establish Aram (righteousness) as a global philosophy

DECLARATION OF THIS SECTION

The global adoption and recognition of India's ancient ethical texts will help humanity rediscover:

- Peace rooted in moral clarity
- Unity grounded in compassion
- Governance shaped by righteousness
- A world where all beings — living, non-living, visible, invisible, human, and non-human — can live with dignity and continuity

India offers not dominance, but wisdom.

Not power, but principles.

Not conquest, but compassion.

Recognizing these texts internationally is essential for establishing a universal moral framework capable of guiding the world toward lasting peace.

SECTION: INDIA'S SPIRITUAL DOCTRINE OF UNIVERSAL SENTIENCE

India is one of the only civilizations in the world where every form of life — human, animal, bird, insect, aquatic being, and even non-living elements — is considered sacred.

Across 10,000 years of Indian philosophical evolution, the land has taught humanity that:

“All beings are one. All beings possess emotion, dignity, and inner life.”

From the reverence of the cow, the loyalty of the dog,
the wisdom of the elephant, the purity of the peacock,

the innocence of the monkey,

down to the sacred recognition of the ant, bee, butterfly, fish, and serpent,

India has affirmed a universal truth:

- There is no ‘low’ life. Every life feels, perceives, suffers, loves, and seeks peace.
- This is not mythology — it is the world’s most ancient ethical and civilizational understanding of sentience.
- The Buddha, born in this sacred soil, proclaimed compassion not just for humans, but for all breathing and non-breathing beings.
- The Naga traditions of India taught that even unseen beings and subtle life forms deserve dignity, protection, and non-violence.

India’s spiritual philosophy therefore stands as a universal declaration:

- Non-human life is not secondary life.
- All beings possess emotions. All beings possess rights.
- All beings deserve peace and continuation.

ALIGNMENT WITH INTERNATIONAL LAW

1. UN Charter Articles 1 & 55 call for promoting dignity, harmony, and peaceful coexistence among all peoples. India extends this principle to all species, aligning with the global movement for ecological and moral justice.

2. UNESCO – Bioethical Principles & Cultural Heritage Mandate

UNESCO recognizes traditional knowledge systems that protect life, nature and inter-species harmony as part of humanity’s intangible heritage. India’s doctrine of universal sentience is fully aligned with this mandate.

3. Convention on Biological Diversity (1992) affirms the intrinsic value of all life forms.

Indian thought anticipated this by millennia, teaching that “அனைத்து உயிர்களும் புனிதம்.”

4. UN Environment Assembly Resolutions on Animal Welfare (2024) recognize animals as sentient beings. India’s civilizational texts go further by declaring emotion and dignity for even the smallest forms of life, including insects and unseen species.

5. One Health – UN, WHO, FAO, UNEP India’s integrated view of nature, animals, humans, and ecosystems is identical to the global One-Health vision.

WHY THIS DOCTRINE IS CRUCIAL FOR GLOBAL PEACE

India teaches the world that:

- Violence against any being reduces human morality.
- Compassion to all beings elevates human civilization.
- Peace is not only the absence of war — it is the presence of universal empathy.
- The continuity of Earth depends on respect for all forms of life.
- Ecosystem harmony begins with emotional recognition of the smallest life.
- Civilization collapses when humans believe they are separate from creation.

This doctrine uniquely supports global peace because it is the only philosophy that unites humans, animals, nature, and non-living forms into one moral community.

It is the only civilizational message that can counter modern violence, ecological destruction, species extinction, and moral decay.

We affirm before the international community:

- All beings are sentient.
- All beings’ experience emotion, fear, joy, suffering, attachment, and pain.
- All beings, including non-human and non-living, possess moral value.
- The world must adopt an inter-species ethical framework rooted in non-violence (Ahimsa), compassion (Karuna), and righteousness (Aram).

India's spiritual doctrine — from Buddha to the Sangam sages, from the Naga traditions to the epics, from Thirukkural to the Upanishads — stands as humanity's most ancient and most advanced Universal Peace Philosophy.

Recognizing this doctrine internationally will enable the world to build a future where:

- No being suffers needlessly
- No species is treated as inferior
- All forms of life can live, evolve, and continue
- Peace is shared by the entire creation — not just the human population

This is the moral foundation for a compassionate, peaceful, and sustainable global civilization.

DECLARATION

We call upon:

- The United Nations
- All Member States
- The International Court of Justice
- UNESCO
- Human Rights & Peacekeeping Bodies
- Regional Forums (EU, AU, ASEAN, SAARC, GCC, OAS)

to recognize India's civilizational duty and leadership in building a world where:

- War becomes obsolete
- Diplomacy becomes humane
- Peace becomes permanent
- Aram becomes the global philosophy
- All beings live with dignity and continuity

This doctrine is not a political demand — It is a civilizational call to prevent the moral collapse of humanity.

CONCLUSION

A world without Aram will destroy itself.

A world with Aram will save itself.

Akanda Bharatham now steps forward — not to dominate the world but to guide it back to peace. This doctrine is submitted as an international moral framework to restore peace, protect life, and ensure the eternal continuity of all beings.
