
UNITED NATIONS DEPOSITORY SUBMISSION

(INTERNATIONAL STATEMENT ON THE GLOBAL ESCALATION OF VIOLENCE AND THE IMPERATIVE FOR ARAM-BASED GOVERNANCE
AND A UNIFIED NATIONAL SECURITY COMMAND STRUCTURE)

(Under Article 51(c) of the Constitution of India and Articles 1, 55, 56, 73, and 99 of the Charter of the United Nations)

Submitted Through:

His Excellency,
The President of the Republic of India,
Rashtrapati Bhavan,

PREAMBLE

Humanity stands at a decisive moment in history.

Global violence has reached unprecedented intensity, threatening the continuity, dignity, and peaceful coexistence of all forms of life — living and non-living.

The natural order, created in harmony and beauty, is today endangered by systems of violence, institutional delay, political fragmentation, and the erosion of moral governance.

Aram (righteousness) — the universal foundation of ethical order — has been replaced by division, aggression, and systemic injustice.

This submission invokes the obligations of the international community under the UN Charter to preserve peace, prevent conflict, and uphold the inherent rights of all beings on Earth.

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL BASIS

1. United Nations Charter

- Article 1(1): Prevention of threats to peace
- Articles 55 & 56: Collective responsibility for stability
- Article 73: Obligations toward global welfare
- Article 99: Duty of the Secretary-General to alert the Council

2. Constitution of India

- Article 51(c): Promotion of international peace and law
- Entry 2A, Union List: National security under Union authority
- Article 355: Duty to protect states against disturbance
- Article 256: Binding nature of Union security directives

SECTION I

ARAM-BASED JUSTICE AND THE ILLEGALITY OF DELAY

Justice delayed is justice denied — morally, legally, and constitutionally.

Delays caused by fragmented policing, divided jurisdictions and inconsistent command structures violate:

- UDHR Article 8 (effective remedy)
- ICCPR Article 2 (timely enforcement)
- UN Basic Principles of Justice (1985)

Aram-based governance affirms that justice must be immediate, uniform, technology-enabled, and nationally coordinated. Fragmentation of policing under multiple state authorities constitutes a structural obstruction to timely justice.

SECTION II

EVIDENCE FROM NATIONAL SECURITY DATA (INDIA)

Official national databases consistently confirm that dual-control policing has weakened national preparedness, delayed responses, and undermined the constitutional duty to protect life and maintain order.

1. National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB)

- 22% rise in riots and group violence (2022–23)
- 17% delay in inter-state investigation procedures
- Widespread delays in chargesheet filing in violent crimes

2. Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA)

- Escalation in cross-border terrorism between 2017–2023
- NIA investigation delays caused by jurisdictional limitations

3. CERT-IN

- Cyber incidents rose from 6.7 lakh (2018) to 14.02 lakh (2022)
- Over 60% required central technical intervention

4. NDMA

- Emergency response delays of 35–45 minutes due to lack of unified command and inter-agency coordination

LEGAL SIGNIFICANCE

These systemic delays violate:

- ICCPR Articles 6 & 9 (protection of life and security)
- UDHR Article 8 (access to swift justice)
- India's Article 51(c) obligation toward global peace standards

This data conclusively demonstrates the need for a single, unified National Security Command.

SECTION III

PROTECTION OF ALL FORMS OF LIFE — LIVING AND NON-LIVING

Global legal instruments recognize the right of all life to exist in dignity, safety, and environmental security:

- UNGA Resolution 76/300
- Stockholm Declaration (1972)
- Rio Declaration (1992)
- UN Convention on Biological Diversity
- UNEP Principles of Intergenerational Equity

This document expands global peace jurisprudence by affirming that non-living entities essential to life — oceans, rivers, forests, soil, atmosphere, minerals — possess a rightful place under the protection of international peace and continuity.

SECTION IV

UNITED NATIONS ETHICAL SECURITY COOPERATION SUMMIT

Under UNGA Resolution 377 (“Uniting for Peace”), this submission proposes a permanent annual summit to:

- Establish ethical global security frameworks
- Promote non-violent conflict resolution
- Integrate advanced surveillance and response technologies
- Protect all beings — living and non-living
- Ensure intergenerational continuity of peace

This summit will serve as a global architecture for ethical and unified security cooperation.

SECTION V

CENTRALIZED COMMAND OF ALL SECURITY FORCES A NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL IMPERATIVE

India’s current dual-control policing model leads to:

- Jurisdictional conflict
- Intelligence fragmentation
- Delayed criminal response
- Unequal access to justice
- Operational inefficiency

Constitutional Basis:

- Article 355 (Union duty to protect)
- Article 51(c) (international peace obligations)
- Entry 2A (national security = Union competence)

A Unified National Security Command will:

- Standardize intelligence and operations
- Enable real-time coordination
- Eliminate inter-state conflict
- Protect fundamental rights
- Strengthen India’s fulfilment of its UN obligations

SECTION VI

HUMAN RIGHTS, DIGNITY, AND WELFARE OF SECURITY PERSONNEL AND THEIR FAMILIES

Security personnel confront:

- High-risk environments
- Psychological strain
- Inadequate welfare support
- Exposure to political interference
- Family insecurity

International Legal Foundations:

- UDHR Article 23 (safe working conditions)
- ICCPR Article 7 (mental and physical protection)
- ILO Safety Conventions
- UN Principles on Use of Force (1990)

Aram-Based Standards Require:

- A national-level welfare authority
- Guaranteed psychological and medical care
- Permanent family security systems
- Zero political interference
- Immediate compensation mechanisms
- Uniform national standards of dignity and protection

Protecting those who protect the nation is a moral and constitutional obligation.

GLOBAL APPEAL

All nations are called upon to:

- Reject division
- Reject violence
- Uphold unity
- Protect peace with peace
- Adopt Aram-based governance

A unified and righteous security structure is essential for global continuity of all beings — living and non-living. Violence must end. Peace must prevail.
