SUBJECT

Submission of an Official International Moral–Linguistic Petition under Article 51(c) of the Constitution of India for Transmission to the United Nations and its Member States

Your Excellency,

With the highest respect to the constitutional office of the President of the Republic of India, I humbly submit this representation under Article 51(c) of the Constitution of India, which mandates the promotion of international peace, justice, and respect for international law and global moral responsibility.

I respectfully place before Your Excellency an OFFICIAL INTERNATIONAL MORAL–LINGUISTIC PETITION titled:

“INTERNATIONAL PETITION FOR THE GLOBAL PROHIBITION OF THE DEHUMANIZING TERM ‘BEGGAR’ AND FOR THE RECOGNITION OF HUMANITY AS ‘SHARERS’ IN WORLD LANGUAGES, POLICIES, AND INSTITUTIONS.”

This submission is non-adversarial, non-accusatory, and non-coercive in nature. It is presented as a moral, civilizational, and linguistic appeal, rooted in the principles of human dignity, equality, interdependence, and the continuity of all beings.

The petition draws attention to the fact that certain terms embedded within global language systems, dictionaries, policy frameworks, development discourse, media narratives, and digital classifications continue to silently undermine human dignity and normalize structural inequality.

In particular, the term “Beggar”, widely used across world languages and institutions, is examined in the enclosed petition as a dehumanizing linguistic construct that contradicts:

- The inherent dignity of every human being,
- The principle of equality before life and nature, and
- The shared responsibility of humanity for survival and welfare.

The petition respectfully proposes a dignity-affirming civilizational correction through language reform, grounded in the fundamental moral understanding that:

Humanity does not survive through begging. Humanity survives through sharing, interdependence, and collective responsibility.

PREAMBLE

Human civilization has reached a stage where violence no longer appears only in weapons or wars, but silently survives within language, labels and institutional terminology.

Words shape perception.

Perception shapes policy.

Policy shapes human destiny.

One such word, used across global languages, institutions, media, algorithms, and humanitarian frameworks, is the term “Beggar”.

This petition is submitted as a moral, civilizational, and linguistic appeal to the international community to recognize that the term “Beggar” is inherently dehumanizing and incompatible with the dignity, equality, and continuity of life.

CORE MORAL PRINCIPLE

Nature (or the Creator) does not distribute life as charity.

No human being receives existence as a donation.

No human being lives by permission of another.

No human being survives by begging for what nature already provides.

What nature provides cannot be “given as alms”. It can only be shared.

Therefore:

A human being is not a “Beggar”.

A human being is a “Sharer”.

PROBLEM STATEMENT

The term “Beggar”:

- Reduces a human being into a position of moral inferiority
- Implies dependency instead of shared human responsibility
- Normalizes inequality as a natural condition
- Influences policy language, welfare systems, media narratives and even AI/algorithmic classifications
- Creates silent psychological violence against vulnerable populations

Despite global commitments to human dignity, equality, and non-discrimination, this word continues to exist unchallenged in official dictionaries, policy documents, development discourse, and digital systems.

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL & ETHICAL ALIGNMENT

This petition aligns with:

- Article 1 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights
(All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights)
- Articles 1, 55, and 56 of the Charter of the United Nations
(Promotion of social progress, dignity, and better standards of life)
- UNESCO principles on cultural dignity and inclusive language
- Global commitments to non-discrimination, human dignity and ethical governance

Language that undermines dignity directly contradicts these principles.

FORMAL REQUESTS TO THE UNITED NATIONS

The Petitioner respectfully requests that the United Nations and its Member States:

1. Formally recognize the term “Beggar” as a dehumanizing and dignity-violating expression.
2. Issue a global moral advisory discouraging the use of the term “Beggar” in:
 - Official documents
 - Policy frameworks
 - Development discourse
 - Media and educational materials
 - Digital and AI-based classification systems
3. Encourage the adoption of dignity-affirming terminology such as: “People in need”, “People seeking support”, or the civilizationally accurate term “Sharers”.
4. Recommend that global dictionaries, linguistic authorities and educational institutions revise definitions that perpetuate human hierarchy through language.

5. Recognize that poverty is a systemic condition, not a personal identity and must never be linguistically framed as moral weakness.

CLARIFICATION

This petition does NOT:

- Accuse any individual, nation, or institution
- Seek coercive or punitive action
- Challenge humanitarian assistance mechanisms

This petition IS:

- A moral and linguistic reform initiative
- A call for dignity-based global consciousness
- A peaceful civilizational correction through language

FINAL DECLARATION

Humanity does not survive through begging.

Humanity survives through sharing.

To continue using language that denies this truth is to silently continue injustice.

To correct language is to begin correcting civilization.

Submitted with respect, peace, and moral responsibility to the international community.

ANNEXURE – I

MORAL, NATURAL, AND CIVILIZATIONAL BASIS FOR THE ABOLITION OF THE TERM “BEGGAR”

This Annexure forms an integral part of the “International Petition for the Global Prohibition of the Dehumanizing Term ‘Beggar’ and for the Recognition of Humanity as ‘Sharers’.

I. NATURAL TRUTH AND THE FIVE ELEMENTS

Nature, through the five fundamental elements — Earth, Water, Fire, Air, and Space — continuously provides all necessities of existence to every living being without discrimination, hierarchy, or deficiency.

No life form is provided more or less by nature.

No life form is granted dignity conditionally.

No life form receives existence as charity.

All beings receive life equally and continuously from Nature, the universal mother.

II. SHARING AS THE LAW OF LIFE

Except humans, all living beings follow the principle of sharing.

A bird that finds food does not accumulate excess while labeling another bird as inferior. A crow shares the food it finds with another crow; it does not hoard everything and later “donate” scraps as alms.

Animals, birds, plants, and even ecosystems survive only through interdependence and sharing, not domination or charity.

Thus, sharing is not a moral luxury.

Sharing is the law of life.

III. INTERDEPENDENCE IS NOT INFERIORITY

Every being in this world survives by depending on another — directly or indirectly.

There is no shame in dependence.

There is no inferiority in needing support.

There is no hierarchy in interdependence.

However, when the value of interdependence is denied, human language transforms a shared human condition into humiliation by using the word “Beggar”.

The term does not describe a condition. It imposes a moral downgrade.

IV. POVERTY IS NOT FAILURE — IT IS CIVILIZATIONAL RESPONSIBILITY

When a human being is forced to ask for survival, it is not the failure of that individual. It is not even the failure of those dependent on that individual.

It is the failure of humanity as a whole. A society that allows one human to fall so low has already failed its moral evolution.

Labeling such a person as a “Beggar” is an attempt to hide collective failure by transferring shame onto the victim.

V. NO ONE CAN GIVE ALMS — ONLY SHARE DUTY

No human can truly give “alms” to another human, because nothing a human possesses is self-created.

All humans — rich and poor, powerful and powerless — receive sound, light, land, water, air, and space as equal endowments from Nature.

What is received freely from Nature cannot be redistributed with arrogance.

Therefore:

One human cannot “give charity” to another human.

One human can only fulfil the duty of sharing.

VI. MORAL CONCLUSION

To call a human being a “Beggar” is to deny:

- Natural equality
- Civilizational responsibility
- The law of interdependence
- The dignity of shared existence

A human who asks is not a beggar.

A human who shares is not superior.

All are sharers.
All are interdependent.
All are equal before Nature.

FINAL AFFIRMATION

Human dignity begins where language stops humiliating survival. The abolition of the word “Beggar” is not linguistic activism — it is civilizational correction.

ANNEXURE – II

ON MORAL AUTHORITY AND THE ILLEGITIMACY OF THE TERM “BEGGAR”

This Annexure is submitted as an integral moral clarification supporting the International Petition seeking the global prohibition of the dehumanizing term “Beggar”.

I. ABSENCE OF HUMAN AUTHORITY

No human being possesses the moral authority, ethical qualification or civilizational right to label another human being as a “Beggar”.

Such authority does not arise from wealth.
Such authority does not arise from power.
Such authority does not arise from position, law, or language.

A human who gives to another human cannot claim superiority, because the giver himself is not the original source of what is given.

II. THE SOLE SOURCE OF PROVISION

For millions of years, the universe has sustained life through the five fundamental elements — Earth, Water, Fire, Air, and Space.

These elements nourish:

- all living beings,
- all non-living systems,
- all civilizations,
- all generations — without discrimination, hierarchy, or humiliation.

This uninterrupted provision, which maintains peace and continuity across time, originates not from humanity, but from Nature — the universal giver.

III. EXCLUSIVE MORAL COMPETENCE

If the act of giving were to be named or judged, only Nature — which gives without ownership, without expectation,
without humiliation,
and without exclusion — could possess such competence.

No human can claim that authority.

A human distributes.

A human shares.

A human fulfills duty.

A human does not grant existence.

A human does not own life.

A human does not create the elements.

Therefore, a human cannot declare another human a recipient of “alms”.

IV. LANGUAGE AS CIVILIZATIONAL VIOLENCE

The word “Beggar” is not a neutral description. It is a linguistic weapon.

It assumes:

- moral superiority of the giver,
- moral inferiority of the receiver,
- ownership over resources that are not self-created.

Such language represents a silent form of violence — civilizational, psychological, and ethical.

It contradicts natural law.

It contradicts human equality.

It contradicts shared dependence.

V. SHARING IS DUTY, NOT CHARITY

What humans call “charity” is, in truth, delayed sharing.

What humans call “alms” is, in truth, an obligation postponed by inequality.

To fulfil a duty does not create superiority.
To receive what is necessary for survival does not create inferiority.

Thus, the moral framing of “giver” and “beggar” is fundamentally illegitimate.

VI. CIVILIZATIONAL CONCLUSION

No human has the right to name another human as a “Beggar”.

That authority does not exist in civilization.
That authority does not exist in law.
That authority does not exist in morality.

Only Nature — which gives equally through the five elements and sustains peace and continuity for all beings — possesses the moral purity of giving.

Humanity, therefore, must abandon language that falsely imitates divine authority and humiliates shared survival.

FINAL DECLARATION

Human dignity demands that language recognize sharing as duty, interdependence as equality, and life as a collective trust.

The global abolition of the word “Beggar” is not an emotional appeal — it is a moral correction overdue.

ANNEXURE – III

LINGUISTIC VIOLENCE, HUMAN DIGNITY & STRUCTURAL HARM

Language is not neutral. Words shape hierarchy, legitimacy, and moral worth.

The continued use of the term “Beggar” in global dictionaries, policies, and public discourse constitutes a form of linguistic violence that diminishes human dignity and reinforces structural inequality.

Labeling a human being as a “Beggar”:

- Reduces a person’s identity to economic deprivation
- Converts social failure into individual stigma
- Normalizes exclusion under the guise of description

International human rights standards recognize that dehumanizing language produces real harm. Where physical violence attacks the body, linguistic violence attacks dignity, belonging, and worth.

This annexure establishes that:

- The term “Beggar” is not descriptive but degrading
- Its usage perpetuates social death and policy neglect
- Its continued presence contradicts the spirit of human rights law

Dignity cannot coexist with derogatory classification. Language reform is therefore a moral and legal necessity.

ANNEXURE – IV

COMPARATIVE CIVILIZATIONAL PRACTICES OF SHARING

Across civilizations, survival has never been framed as humiliation. Indigenous, ancient, and traditional societies recognized mutual dependence as a condition of life, not a defect.

- Ancient Tamil civilization emphasized “பகிர்தல்” (sharing), not charity
- Indigenous African systems functioned through collective sustenance
- Native societies treated receiving as participation, not inferiority

No enduring civilization historically institutionalized a term equivalent to “Beggar” as a moral identity.

The modern use of such terminology represents a civilizational regression, not progress.

This annexure affirms:

- Receiving support is a shared human condition
- Dependence is universal across time and cultures
- Stigmatizing language is historically aberrant

What civilizations preserved through wisdom; modern language has eroded through neglect.

ANNEXURE – V

INTERNATIONAL LEGAL & ETHICAL ALIGNMENT

This proposal aligns fully with existing international law and ethical frameworks without contradiction.

Relevant instruments include:

- Universal Declaration of Human Rights (Articles 1 & 22)
- International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights
- UN Guiding Principles on Extreme Poverty and Human Rights
- Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)

Each of these frameworks emphasizes:

- Inherent human dignity
- Social protection, not humiliation
- Collective responsibility, not moral judgment

The term “Beggar” conflicts with these principles by:

- Assigning identity-based inferiority
- Undermining equality before dignity
- Normalizing linguistic exclusion

Replacing derogatory terminology strengthens, rather than weakens, international legal coherence.

This annexure confirms:

- No treaty conflict exists
- Full alignment with UN values is maintained
- Language reform enhances legal clarity

ANNEXURE – VI

SCIENTIFIC & PSYCHOLOGICAL EVIDENCE ON LINGUISTIC HARM

Modern science confirms what ethics long understood: labels shape outcomes.

Psychological and sociological research demonstrates that:

- Negative labeling reduces self-worth
- Stigmatized identities limit social mobility
- Language directly influences policy behavior

Terms that fix people into permanent categories of deficiency create self-reinforcing cycles of exclusion.

From a scientific standpoint:

- Degrading language produces measurable harm
- Neutral or dignity-based language improves reintegration
- Social labeling alters both perception and treatment

This annexure establishes that:

- The harm is empirical, not emotional
- Language reform is evidence-based
- Policy language affects human lives

Science and conscience converge on this conclusion.

ANNEXURE – VII

TERMINOLOGY REPLACEMENT FRAMEWORK

(Dignity-Based Alternatives)

The objective is not censorship, but ethical modernization of language.

Proposed replacements for “Beggar” include:

- Person in need of collective support
- Recipient of shared social resources
- Individual experiencing economic vulnerability
- Participant in social sharing systems

These alternatives:

- Preserve factual meaning
- Remove stigma and humiliation
- Are compatible with policy, law, and translation

This annexure provides:

- Non-derogatory vocabulary options
- Policy-safe linguistic guidance
- A constructive reform pathway

Language should describe conditions, not diminish humanity.

ANNEXURE – VIII

MESSAGE TO FUTURE INTERPRETERS (Civilizational Record)

Interpret this record not through the fears of its century, but through the conscience it sought to awaken.

Where law hesitated, ethics spoke.
Where society labeled, humanity corrected.

This generation recognized that no human being is a “Beggar” by nature. All beings receive from the Earth, from nature, from the five elements and from one another.

Sharing is not charity.
Receiving is not inferiority.
Dependence is not disgrace.

This record stands as evidence that language was reformed before violence followed and dignity was restored before exclusion hardened.

If this correction endures it will be because conscience prevailed over habit.

ANNEXURE – IX

INTERNATIONAL ETHICAL FOUNDATION (On Dignity, Sharing and Human Equality)

1. Every living and non-living being on Earth exists through continuous sharing provided by Nature, mediated through the five fundamental elements — Earth, Water, Fire, Air, and Space.
2. No being in the natural order survives through “charity”. Survival is sustained through interdependence and sharing.

3. The use of the word “Beggar” to describe a human being reduces shared human failure into individual humiliation, thereby violating the principle of collective moral responsibility.
4. A person seeking support is not a failure. Such a situation represents a failure of social systems, governance structures, and collective human conscience.
5. Therefore, no human being holds moral authority to label another human as a “beggar”.

ANNEXURE – X

CIVILIZATIONAL & ECOLOGICAL EVIDENCE

(Observed Natural Order)

1. In all observed species other than humans, resources are shared, not monopolized.
2. A crow shares food with another crow; it does not hoard resources and later demean others through conditional giving.
3. No species practices linguistic humiliation as a mechanism of resource distribution.
4. The concept of “begging” exists only where artificial scarcity, power imbalance, and moral detachment have been created.
5. Hence, the term “Beggar” is not ecological, not scientific, and not natural — it is purely a human-made linguistic violence.

ANNEXURE – XI

INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS ALIGNMENT

This declaration is aligned with:

- Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR)
 - Article 1: All human beings are born free and equal in dignity.
 - Article 22: Right to social security and dignity.
- International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR)
 - Article 11: Right to an adequate standard of living.

- UN Guiding Principles on Extreme Poverty and Human Rights (2012)
– Emphasizes dignity-based language and non-stigmatization.

The continued global use of humiliating terminology contradicts the spirit and intent of these international instruments.

ANNEXURE – XII

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS (SDG) CONSISTENCY

The proposal is consistent with:

- SDG 1 – No Poverty
- SDG 10 – Reduced Inequalities
- SDG 16 – Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions

Language that stigmatizes human dependency directly undermines inclusive development and social cohesion.

Dignity-based terminology is essential for sustainable peace.

ANNEXURE – XIII

PHILOSOPHICAL & MORAL DECLARATION

(Sharer, Not Beggar)

1. No human gives anything of their own. All resources originate from Nature.
2. Humans can only redistribute what is already shared by Nature.
3. Therefore, the correct moral terminology is “Sharer”, not “Beggar”.
4. To demean a receiver is to deny Nature’s continuous generosity.
5. Only Nature — which provides without discrimination for billions of years — holds the singular authority over giving.

ANNEXURE – XIV

CONSTITUTIONAL ROUTE (INDIA)

This submission is routed through:

Article 51(c) of the Constitution of India (Promotion of international peace, justice, and respect for international law and treaty obligations)

India, as a civilizational state rooted in dignity and harmony, is uniquely positioned to place this moral proposal before the United Nations and its Member States.

ANNEXURE – XV

REQUEST TO THE UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations is respectfully requested to:

1. Initiate a global linguistic review of dehumanizing terms.
2. Discourage the use of the word “Beggar” in official, academic, and policy communications.
3. Encourage dignity-based terminology aligned with human rights.
4. Promote global awareness that poverty is systemic failure, not individual inferiority.

ANNEXURE – XVI

NON-ACCUSATORY DISCLAIMER

This submission does not accuse any State, institution, or individual.

It is presented as a moral, ethical, and civilizational appeal for linguistic reform in the interest of global dignity, peace, and human continuity.

Guiding Principle:

“அறம் தான் உன்னையும் என்னையும் இணைத்தது”
(Aram is what united you and me)
